“Economics in Times of Uncertainty”

A war on the EU's doorstep, skilled labor shortages, AI-driven automation, supply chain disruptions, high inflation levels and a looming threat of stagflation – the current economic environment is characterized by a high degree of uncertainty. This year's conference of the Austrian Economic Organization (NOeG) aims to discuss the implications of this uncertainty on consumers, firms and governments, labor and financial markets, industrial organization, and fiscal and monetary policy. The organizers invite submissions of full papers on these topics as well as from all areas of Economics and Finance.
