in the Department of Systematic Theology in the Faculty of Catholic Theology.

The professorship has the task of dealing with topics from the entire field of dogmatics, taking appropriate account of current issues and the history of theology and dogma in research, teaching and third mission. By reflecting on the significance of Christian faith in the past and present, dogmatics is one of the central theological disciplines at the Faculty of Catholic Theology and makes a decisive contribution to both its profile and international visibility.

General employment requirements are:

- Completed degree in Catholic theology
- Doctorate in theology (Dr.theol.) and relevant habilitation or equivalent qualification
- Very good qualification in university didactics
- Proof of involvement in the international scientific community (e.g. activity as a peer, relevant experience abroad, organisation of conferences, etc.)
- excellent written and spoken German and very good English language skills.

Expected are:

- Representation of the subject of dogmatics in its entire breadth in research and teaching
- Excellent research achievements
- Proven ability to connect to the three research lines of the Faculty of Theology (Intercultural and Interreligious Dynamics in their Fields of Tension and Interactions / Responsible Citizenship: Ethics, Personality Formation, Anthropology / Living Jewish-Christian and Wisdom Cultural Heritage: Pluralities, Transformations, Interdependencies) as well as to the subject "Intercultural Theology and the Study of Religions", which is part of the Department of Systematic Theology.
- Interdisciplinary competences in cultural studies
- Experience in university teaching and in the field of third mission
- Willingness to work in a team and co-operate, interdisciplinarity, social skills, ability to work under pressure, flexibility
- Experience in or ability and willingness to take on university management functions and to participate in university committees and academic self-administration
- Participation in research and teaching collaborations at Paris Lodron University and their expansion
- Experience in modern science management and in acquiring third-party funding

The position is offered as a full-time tenured contract, as regulated under the Austrian University Act (UG 2002 §98 Abs.1). The Paris Lodron University of Salzburg is committed to increasing the proportion of women in research and teaching positions and therefore explicitly encourages female candidates to apply. Women will be given preference over equally qualified men. Disabled persons and persons with chronic diseases who fulfil the qualification criteria are invited to apply. Travel and accommodation costs arising from this application cannot be reimbursed.

Applications should be submitted with the following documents to the managing Vicerector of the Paris Lodron University of Salzburg, Ao. Univ.-Prof. Dr. Martin Weichbold and sent by e-mail to bewerbung@plus.ac.at no later than March 20, 2024. Please include the reference number B 0003/1-2024 of the job advertisement in the application.

Your application should include:

- curriculum vitae,
- certificates,
- list of publications,
- qualification papers and three informative essays
- list of courses taught,
- evidence of teaching effectiveness, such as a sample of formal course evaluations,
- didactic certificates, if applicable,
- research statement,
- teaching statement,
- If applicable, presentation of other activities worthy of consideration.
